

Juvenile Rehabilitation

The Juvenile Rehabilitation (JR) caseload is comprised of three components: Juvenile Commitments, Juvenile Parole Revocations, and Adult Commitments.

- Juvenile Commitments are individuals sentenced for crimes committed under age 18 and are under Juvenile Court jurisdiction.
- Juvenile Parole Revocations are individuals returned to confinement for up to 30 days for violating parole after release from a Juvenile Commitment.
- Adult Commitments are individuals who committed crimes under age 18 and are sentenced as adults to the Department of Corrections (DOC). They begin their sentences in JR facilities.

The June forecast removes the step adjustments for the incremental impacts of the two so-called "JR to 25" bills (E2SSB 6160 and HB 1646). The technical work group has discussed and agreed that these impacts most likely have been reflected in the primary trend of the actual data we observed, and therefore it is appropriate to remove them from this and future forecasts.

Risks to the Forecast

Risks to this forecast are moderate to high. There is uncertainty about what the recent hikes in Juvenile and Adult Commitments admissions may imply for the near future caseload. The increased lengths of stay observed among the Adult Commitments in recent years may also affect the overall caseload in the future. In addition, there is continued uncertainty surrounding the impact of COVID-19 on the capacity in the criminal justice system and its implication for future JR intakes.
